Learn more about Mission style furniture including the elements to look for and who made this American Arts & Crafts style. As part of the Arts and Crafts movement, furniture made of oak with simple lines and minimal embellishment was extremely popular in America during the first quarter of the 20th century. The style was named "Mission" during its heyday since it was supposedly based on furniture found in the Franciscan missions in California, according to American Furniture: Tables, Chairs, Sofas & Beds by Marvin D. Schwartz. Mission furniture is very often associated with Gustav Stickley. He was no doubt the master of this simple style and his work is considered to be some of the most important. Gustav Stickley and the American Arts & Crafts Movement (Dallas Museum of Art Publications) by Kevin W.
